West Cork, home to Gubeen cheese, Ummera smoked wild salmon and dozens of artisan food products, has a well-deserved reputation as Ireland's culinary hotspot. The recently launched A Taste of West Cork, devised by Fáilte Ireland chef Rory Morahan, capitalises on the innate flavours of produce grown locally and adds a modern twist to some of our most traditional dishes. We have ten copies of the guide to give away to Irish Homes readers. Write to/email us, address on editorial page
